Prodip Kumar(10 May,1986)

'I must sleep tomorrow. Let me enjoy this day.'

I started writing when I fell in love with the beauty of nature. I was then only 15 years old. At the first stage of my poetic career, I wrote simple poems worshiping nature. When I understood the real beauty, I started to realize that this beauty is not only in nature but also in every human mind. After that I ran after this beauty to find out. At one stage, I came to know the reality that human mind is full of beauty but it is covered with a towel of sorrow.

A Silent Pain In My Heart

You are in the South
And I am in the North.
But the Pains are common.
Coming from both sides,
Equally they hurt us.
Though each other we can't touch,
The Pains mix in the same ocean
Only to make the water more salty.

A Small Drop Of Dew

If I offer you
A small drop of dew
And a piece of diamond.
Which one will you choose?
I must hope,
You prefer the diamond to dew,
Then how you can value my tender love
With a desert like heart in you.

You may find thousand hearts around you
But you don't know,
Which one really loves you.
If you want to get this one,
You have to choose then the dew,
And it makes you feel
How much my heart can love you.

Beauty Of Gabriella

How I can praise such a beauty,
Though thousand of words, thousand of thoughts I have.
In every second, I am losing the pulse from my senses
Only the weakness of heart is getting high.

The curly hair is as bright as that night
I dream a dream there,
When the wind creates too many waves
Just you arrange them with little care.

The eyes are brighter than the Sun
My heart has been easily burnt,
Why would you do this, dear?
Tell me, how I can get it back,
How I can love again someone.

Nothing could give me peace before,
Nothing could make me so shy!
Gabriella, it is your smile
That makes me feel how to live,
And how, thousand times I can die.

One Spring can never bring all the blessings of God,
But the smile is enough to bring them,
So long men can live or eyes can see,
So long you live and my love must be same.

Happy Birthday

On this day you came,
From your parents you took a name.
The day is special for me and you,
Keep always smile on your lips
Mixing it with morning dew.
I bless you a life with a lot of happiness,
Celebrate your birthday forgetting all sadness.

I Want To Stay Alone

Will you hate me again?
If I want to love you.
Will you leave me again?
If I want to walk with you.
Will you be silent again?
When I will ask to love me.
I can remember from my experience,
There is a possibility of doing these again.
So, I want to stay alone.

Justice Will Prevail Someday

Will you call me animal?
Though I have a strong feeling of affection,
Keeping my baby in my womb,
I am walking slowly but steadily
Only to draw your attention.

My baby is hungry
As I couldn't get anything to feed,
We have been walking for days towards you
To make you realize our need.

She is moving and jumping
Possibly hunger makes her worry,
But it is her happiness to see you
That tells me to hurry.

I am only fifteen
And not young enough
To realize everything,
I heard about your perfection
For that you are called human being.

My baby asks me to see the food
"Ma, why are the human beings so good? "
I tell they have the feeling of affection
And so they are better than we in perfection.

It is belief that makes us closure
Food is nothing, just a worldly pleasure.

I have some as my baby is hungry,
No one knows what is going to be?
Some drops of blood suddenly come out
Oh baby! They cannot hear your shout.

They have given explosive in your food
So, I am running to and fro
How can I save your life?
Baby, where will I go?

My little baby asks me now
"Why did you trust them blindly? "
They have no feelings as we have
For this I have to sleep forever in your lap.

Justice will prevail someday
Before the equality,
He will judge only our deed
Not our identity.

Keep Me In Your Heart

Will I want something?
Nothing, without a piece of land.
Believe me, I will give you the exact price.
One day you will give it to someone
Whom you don't know.
What do you think about me?
You know me for few days.
Only I can value it with proper love,
Believe me dear.
Just I want to make a small room
And want to stay there.
Will you give me a corner in your heart?

Let's Love From Beginning.

How many days the sun rises
And goes to the western sky,
Know you and I
Years both we spent in vain,
More we lost than gained,
As the Spring starts singing
Let's love from beginning.

We were in hundred indecision,
And feared of taking any revision
What we got then,
Nothing without pain,
It's my humble request,
Don't rule over your heart again.

The hearts become more pure
After a long separation,
Now they can love more
And can take more decisions.

Dear, never be silent
Never think high,
Nothing changes without you and I
As the Spring starts singing
Let's love from beginning.

Love At First Sight

No cloud in the sky was that day
So the sun tried his best to lighten,
The North wind was calm but moving
And the Despair wanted to touch me anyway.

The shadow was beside me
Though I had nothing to say,
Suddenly the birds were singing sweetly
To see a beauty.

I stopped, thought and asked myself
Who is she?
Will I go there?
No! What will I say?
I could start my discussion with her,
But the Courage didn't permit me.

I took a secret glance of her beauty,
Probably, she looked at me
And she was ready to go,
I wanted to call her
But the mind said 'No'.

She came as a rough wind
And I forgot everything,
I saw my face in her eyes
That were as blue as the seas,
I saw so many dreams in them
And a sweet smile in the corners of her lips.

Love Me Again

You showed the way
When I was not in love,
Now I'm in love
But you make me forget
To walk on this way.
It's my humble request
love me again.

My Octopus Love

In a very fine day, I was forced to fall in love
With a mermaid,
While I was walking along the bank,
I could her find.

The more I saw the more I drove
Into the deepest corner of my hope.

I drove and came out again and again
To take breathe like a dolphin,
But she didn't care of me
Because she lived in that cold sea.

I tried to impress singing a song
It was not short but little long,
Her tone was sweeter than I,
She continued making me somewhat shy.

My Love was like a octopus
She grasped me but I hoped too much
The more I saw the more I drove
Into the deepest corner of my hope.

My Sweet Beloved

I dreamt a sweet dream,
Standing in the middle of the flowers,
I enjoyed their beauty and the showers.
It was the end of the midnight,
And alone I was under the moonlight.
I expected nothing without one
At last she came with heavenly bright
And she was my sweet beloved

Prodip Kumar

Never Ask Me

Never ask me
Where the heart exists,
I can't answer you
But I can assure,
Only you live there.

Never ask me,
How much I can love you
I can't explain.
But I can assure,
I want to come here thousand times
Only to see your smile and eyes.

Prodip Kumar

Ode To Rain

Oh! Rain, come with your watery hands and make my dreams true.
You were the source of joy
in my childhood when I was a boy.

Standing on the other side of my window,
I enjoyed the beauty.
When you came from heaven
and that made me happy.

Prodip Kumar

The Tree

A tree can give us shade
Beneath it a passerby can make his bed,
Its food and oxygen keep us alive
As a mother in her womb rears a child.

When death meets,
The dry branches give heat,
And the soil gets fertile
By the leaves mile after mile.

The best creature in this world is the tree
Neither human, elephant nor the bee.

Prodip Kumar

Think About Humanity

Where the wind stops blowing
You can hear thousands are crying,
Where the flowers fear to be born
You can feel how far the scarlet dawn.

The birds forgets singing there
Only the vultures shout,
Why don't you feel their pain?
Why don't you stop the procession of the dead crowd?

Where the Sun rises everyday
But He fails to brighten the hearts of darkness,
You can see too many devils there
Who are dancing on the bodies with little care.

No more blood, no more blood,
I won't see again,
No more weapon, no more tyranny,
Only you need love to feel their pain.

They are not Muslim, Buddhist, Hindu, Christian
They are not animal but human,
Think about humanity
Because we are also human.

Truth Of Life

I try to observe my life
From every corner in a triangle,
But I find myself not in a line,
It is a moon like circle.

I am continuously roaming here
Like the other hand of a compass,
As the life is full of hardship,
I can't escape,
Then why I won't bear.

The Happiness must embrace the Sorrow
Wherever I stay,
And I must sleep tomorrow,
So, let me enjoy this day.

Prodip Kumar

Who Is The Richest One?

I love the blooming flowers
And they also love me,
Whenever I stay with them
They give me their beauty.

I enjoy the twitter of the birds
So, I run after to see,
Whenever they get a chance
They sing before me.

I love my mother too much
As I love my God also,
Then, who is the richest one?
Do you know?

Prodip Kumar

You Are In The Heart

I never ask that moon
Why you forget to smile,
In the darkness of the night.
Never walk with that shadow
Who becomes sad to see your bright.
You are in the heart,

I want to keep you forever.
Dear, never go leaving me alone,
Never say goodbye.

Prodip Kumar

You Come Again And Again

I want to forget you thousand times
in thousand ways,
But every time I fail.
Why? I don't know.
The more I hate
the more I fall in love with thee.
Is it called real love?
This is why, you come again and again to me.
